BIO

Steve and his wife Bridgette are currently launching The Power of RE, through their newest endeavor they've titled Living A Repurposed Life. Steve is also co-founder and vice-chairman of the board of 360 grassroots.a not-for-profit organization focused on economic and cultural revitalization of communities and small towns, achieved through the strategic collaboration with partners to build sustainable, healthy multigenerational communities.

Steve has over 40 years experience in commercial architecture and real estate.

His passion for strategic master planning and Architecture began while working for Southwestern Bell corporation. A twenty-two year career with SBC formed his architectural thinking around the business aspects of architecture and community planning.

Steve embraces the strong relationship between economics, strategic planning, architecture and community planning. He applies his expertise in business, architecture and historical analysis in assisting communities to align their vision with execution and implementation tactics.

Steve has managed and executed projects for Fortune 500 clients in Texas, Kansas and Louisiana.
